community

What makes great community buildings?

Spaces that inspire. Places for learning and places for teaching.

Forms appropriate to their context. Design that stretches beyond the everyday.

Beautiful materials. Longevity.

Christopher Noll and Janet Tam understand that great community buildings spring from that unique confluence of client needs, consultant commitment, public input, construction knowledge, and new ideas.

We invite you to visit three of our recent projects. And to let us know how we can help build your community.
